Gen. Stakelberg Said To Have Lost All His Men

The Japanese Fear That Another
Two Months Will Be Necessary to Take Port Arthur.

11000 KILLED THERE LATELY

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Central News from Rome states that General Stakelberg's army of 25,000 men reported to have been cut off by the Japanese while attempting a junction with a force under General Kuropatkin has been completely wiped out. Another dispatch from Rome says that General Kuropatkin had two horses shot from under him during the retreat of the Russians from Liao Yang. A majority of the telegrams from Rome, however, originate from a Dubious Italian news agency, which seldom receives genuine cable dispatches.

TWO MONTHS LONGER.

Chefoo, Sept. 5.—The fighting at Port Arthur from August 27th to Sept. 1, was the fiercest in character. Bullets from Japanese rifles often fell within Japanese retreating everywhere except at Palunschau which was retained. Itz-shan was several times assaulted and finally abandoned. Sept. 2 the Japanese attacked the Russian right flank, but the assault was without result. The Japanese now fear another two-months' war will be needed to take the town. The losses in recent engagements of the Japanese were eight thousand killed and wounded and the Russians three thousand killed and wounded.

First Organized Break In The Struggle—Stock Men Return to Work.

MAN BLOWS UP A MILL

Chicago, Sept. 5.—As a result of a conference Sunday night between representatives of the unions involved in the packing house strike and owners of the plants, the end of the long labor struggle is set for the middle of this week. An understanding has been arrived at by which the men will vote on the question of calling off the strike. In case ballots are in the affirmative, the packers will employ all they can give work to. The wages of skilled men will remain the same as before the strike.

MILL MAN'S FINAL VICTORY.
Meridian, Miss., Sept. 5.—To defeat a hundred employees who have harassed him for a month for higher wages, Moss Graham, the wealthy owner of the Highwood Lumber mills, blew up his extensive machinery with dynamite and expressed intense pleasure over the final victory. He will retire from business.

WANT TO GO BACK.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Fifty live stock handlers called on the superintendent of the Stock Yards and Transit Co. and asked to be given their old positions. The superintendent complied. This is the first organized break in the strike.

OSCAR BAKER ARRESTED.

Oscar B. Baker, formerly of Mayfield but late of Paducah, was arrested Saturday at Eddyville by City Marshal Charles E. Braswell for obtaining money and goods by false pretenses, and is now in jail waiting the action of the grand jury in the charge. Baker got a pair of $8 pants made at the tailoring establishment of Will J. Dicke and with a man named J. N. Cooley went to Dicke's place on August 19th and gave him a check for $35 on the Farmers' National Bank, of Mayfield.

RUSSIAN MURDERER IS OUT

KILLED BY TWO SHOCKS.

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Formerly prepared for death, Giuseppe Versacia walked to the electric chair in Auburn prison this morning and, after two shocks were given him, was pronounced dead. He was electrocuted for the murder of John Vandogor and his half-sister, last May. His accomplice was electrocuted last week.

ANARCHIST REPORTED RESCUED.
St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—The story that Murderer Plehve was taken from prison by bogus officers is scoffed at by officials, but it is widely credited.

TIONS CLEAN AND NEW.

Tonight the Woodmen of the World carnival and fair will open and continue for five days.

The Woodmen lodge band has been secured to furnish music for the carnival and the attractions are all here and everything is in readiness for the opening.

The Brown Amusement company has the contract for furnishing the attractions and has picked the best obtainable. They are all first-class and several are new and never seen here before. There will be several free acts, and enough entertainment to keep those who do not attend the shows, interested.

There will be a parade probably tomorrow night. The carnival grounds are located at 12th and Trimble streets where the carnival association had its last carnival, and today the electricians are working stringing wires for the lights. The promoters of the carnival assure the public that there will be no delay and the public will be given a clean, moral carnival.

nessed by Thousands.

MANY UNIONS REPRESENTED

Labor Day dawned bright and beautiful, and large crowds were out early in Paducah to prepare for the Labor Day celebration. The streets have been lined with pleasure seekers, and the clean, attractive uniforms of the various unions added brightness to the occasion.

Nearly every laboring man in Paducah has a holiday and is celebrating. The big parade this forenoon was one of the largest and most creditable ever seen in Paducah, and was witnessed by thousands of people along the line of march.

The various unions made splendid showings, and there are many visitors here to assist in making the anniversary one long to be remembered.

PROMINENT MAN DIES IN NASHVILLE

Major J. H. Ashcraft Called
There by Nephew's Death.

Mr. E. S. Ashcraft, an Attorney,
Dies From Acute Gastritis
In Tennessee.

WELL KNOWN IN PADUCAH

Major J. H. Ashcraft left yesterday for Nashville to attend the funeral of his nephew, Mr. E. S. Ashcraft, who died there Saturday.

The deceased was quite well known in Paducah, as was his father, Capt. Geo. Ashcraft, a brother of Major Ashcraft. The Nashville Banner says:

Mr. E. S. Ashcraft, a well-known member of the Nashville bar, died a few minutes before 1 o'clock this afternoon at his home, 1298 Russell street, after an illness of two weeks. Last Saturday Mr. Ashcraft was taken sick with acute gastritis, and from the first his condition was regarded as serious, but no great alarm was felt until two days ago, when he grew rapidly worse.

Mr. Ashcraft was the son of Capt. G. W. Ashcraft, who for years has been connected with the steamboat interests of this city. He was about 42 years old, and a native of Western Kentucky, though most of his life was spent in this city.

Mr. Ashcraft studied law after completing his literary education, and began the practice here when yet a young man. He has been continuously engaged in the practice of law, except for about a year, during the famous real estate boom, when he gave up his practice and engaged in the real estate business. He made quite a neat fortune in this business, but it went with the collapse of the boom, and Mr. Ashcraft returned to the practice of law.

He was a republican in politics, and was candidate for elector for this, the Sixth congressional district, for president in 1884, and for President McKinley four years later. He was a candidate for county court clerk on the republican ticket and for state senator when Hon. H. Clay Evans was a candidate for governor.

He married Miss Capitola Burch nearly two years ago, and she survives him.

Mrs. G. W. Ashcraft, his mother, who has been in feeble health for some time is completely prostrated by grief over the death of her son, and her condition is considered precarious.

Mr. Ashcraft was popular with the members of the profession, and in the business community in general, and his death will cause universal regret.

closes; young lady receiving the most votes will be declared elected and receive $25 gold watch.

11:30 p. m.—Announcement of winner in Goddess of Labor contest.

12:30 p. m.—Home, Sweet Home; dance pavilion.

Miss Blanche Mooney, elected Goddess of Labor last year, rode in an automobile in parade, just after the band, Miss Ollie Crandall and Miss Gertie Walker being candidates this year, were maids of honor for the goddess.

Mr. Jake Arts is in charge of the ice cream stand.

Messrs. Harry George, Adolph Wehrer, Ollie Allen, Ad Curd and Louis Head are in charge of the country store which has over 3000 valuable articles.

Mr. John Hallenberg manages the refreshment stand at the dancing pavilion.

Mr. Adam Weikert has charge of the refreshment stand at the theater. Mr. George Bondurant is in charge of the floor at the dancing pavilion and Mr. A. V. Schofield is at the pavilion gate, assisted by Lenhard Block and William Downs.

Mr. O. R. Trotter has charge of all the tickets.

The parade was very long and the best ever seen here. More men were in line and there was more enthusiasm and earnest effort to make it a success than ever before seen.

THE BLOCK SIGNALS WORKING AT LAST

Special Train Of Officials Left
This Morning

All Are to Be Working By Tonight
—The Bridges are all Being Inspected Now.

OTHER RAILROAD NEWS NOTES

Today at noon the block system on the Paducah district of the Illinois Central went into effect as far as Princeton, and tonight at 6 o'clock the portion from Princeton to Central City will be put into operation.

This morning at 8 o'clock a special train left Eleventh and Broadway which will run through to Central City to enable the officials of the road to inspect the system and to deliver full supplies to each block station.

On the train were A. H. Egan, superintendent of the Louisville division of the road; Chief Traveling Dispatcher McCabe, Trainmaster Henry Scheuing, Chief Local Dispatcher J. E. McIlwaine, G. H. Groce, superintendent of telegraph of the system and several block signal men.

There were a few other employees of the division on the train and it followed train No. 122, the Fulton and Louisville accommodation. The officials will tomorrow, probably, run a special train directly after No. 122 to see that the blocks are properly worked and observed.

This morning Mr. F. H. Brainbridge, supervisor of bridges and buildings of the Illinois Central system, accompanied by Mr. F. L. Thompson, roadmaster of the Louisville division and Supervisor W. C. Waggener, left for Louisville to inspect bridges and buildings on this division of the road. This is the regular fall inspection and the entire division will be carefully inspected.

Mr. Clarence Knowles, superintendent of water supply of the Louisville division of the Illinois Central, will Wednesday finish the work of pipe laying from Tennessee street to the coal chute in the local south yards. This has been in progress more than a week and has been a quick job. The material for the water tank is arriving and the frame work will be started this week. The tank will be located near the old dispatching offices.

Supervisor of Bridges and Buildings W. C. Waggener stated this morning that he would tomorrow ship the automatic gate signal towers from Central City where they are being built and will have them here Wednesday. As soon as the houses come they will be put up.

This morning the Illinois Central shops presented a very dismal appearance. There was stillness everywhere and no sounds broke the quiet except from the Labor Day celebrators who were building floats in the shop yards. Two floats were being fitted out by the boiler-makers and blacksmiths and other than the few men working on these shops were abandoned.

HE ENTERTAINED IN TEXAS.

A young man who sells Oriental goods and registers as James Garre, of Atlanta, Ga., is at the New Richmond Hotel. His face seemed to be familiar to Colonel Dale, the proprietor, but he could not remember where he had seen him. Finally Colonel Dale's son recognized the guest as a young man who spent the night at their ranch in Texas, and when he left he was ever in Texas, the young man readily recalled Colonel Dale, and told about what a pleasant night he spent on his ranch a few years ago. He had also been worried to establish Colonel Dale's identity. He knew he had seen him but could not remember where.

MISS BUCKNER TO STAR THIS SEASON

Popular Kentucky Girl Now Resting Up.

A New Opera Is Now Being Written
For Her and Will Be Staged
In November.

HER SUCCESS IS PREDICTED

The Louisville Times of Saturday says of Miss Blanche Buckner, whose mother and sisters arrived in Paducah Saturday to make this city their home:

"Miss Blanche Buckner, prima donna for the 'Isle of Spice' company, who left Boston August 23 to open an engagement in New York has returned to Boston for a rest of a month at a hotel on the Charles river. Miss Buckner's understudy, Miss York, will play the role until October when she will return to the company. Mr. Bert Whitney Miss Buckner's manager, is having an opera written especially for her, which will be staged in New York in November and for that reason she is taking the rest to prepare her voice for the part. The October number of Munsey's Magazine will contain pictures of Miss Buckner with a sketch of her work. Miss Buckner has attracted attention in a professional way, the matrimonial bee has buzzed dangerously near this dainty little prima donna, but her fascination for the footlights has withstood the temptations of millionaires. Mrs. James Buckner, the mother of Miss Buckner, who has been chaperoning her passed through here this week en route to Paducah to remain until Miss Buckner returns to New York."

Carlisle County Man Accused—Few Details Received.

Columbus, Ky., Sept. 5.—The first news received here of an atrocious murder near Sikeston, Mo., in which two men from this locality figured, was a telegram addressed to Marshal Zimmerman.

"Joe Parsons was murdered here last night by George Parker. Tell his friends.

G. B. STONE, Sheriff."

Later advices are to the effect that an axe was used in dealing the death blow and that Parsons' head was severed from his body. The two men, in company with their wives, left Columbus Sunday night in a wagon belonging to Parsons. It has since developed that the nocturnal departure was a trick of Parsons' to escape the payment of a mortgage on his team and wagon held by William Lightfoot of Arlington, Ky. It is presumed that Parker is still at large, as no news of his apprehension has been received here. No one can tell what prompted the killing, as both men had worked together and been inseparable for years.

Local Fans Disappointed.

Local fans were greatly disappointed last night at the result of the game in the K. I. T. league. The only way they tried to console themselves was with the knowledge that we took the egotism out of Cairo.

"I hate to see the windup," declared one fan, "but we have attended to Cairo's case this season, if we succeed in doing nothing else."

No details were received of how Paducah came to be so badly defeated yesterday, but Manager Ray telephoned that Freeman was knocked out, and to send Bonno on, and Bonno left at once, and will probably pitch today's game.

Goodwin, it seems from yesterday's game between Vincennes and Hopkinsville, has returned to Vincennes, and will pitch against Cairo.

There is also another plan regarded favorably by some members of the local association, which is to lend Bonno to some of the clubs that have to play Cairo yet, and thus leave the Sipeotwi microbes to battle against Bonno and Goodwin once more. It is understood arrangements to this effect are now being considered.

This may not be very commendable but it is as commendable as Cairo's tactics. Cairo now has two new pitchers, Wagner and Allen, the latter a new man. It is understood that the latter is a crack man employed solely to finish the season. With Wilder, Crangle, Wagner, Bittroff and Allen the Egyptians have a staff of pitchers hard to beat, and if Paducah wins the pennant it will have to be through the assistance of pitchers equally as good.

It is reported that Clarksville is in no danger of beating Cairo, as the Tennessee boys have not recovered from their failure to win the pennant last year because Paducah defeated her in the windup, and for this reason intends to give Cairo these last games to help her out.

Princeton Defeated.

The I. A. L. baseball team, Paducah's champion amateur team, defeated the Princeton independent team at Wallace park yesterday afternoon by a score of 8 to 1. The game was not interesting because of it being so one-sided, and many of the spectators left before it was over.

Stevens, the much-advertised amateur pitcher who is said to hold league possibilities, was knocked everywhere, several doubles and tripples being made off of him. He was not very well supported and many errors were made behind him while Daigind, for the home team, did good work and received faultless support, several double plays being made.

The attendance was fair and there was some little rooting until the game went so one-sided and the grandstand lapsed into silence. This makes the second game between the Princeton and Paducah teams, each team taking one.

A Tripple Play.

In the game between Vincennes and Clarksville Wednesday, when Vincennes had a runner on first and second Piepho ran up and caught a bunted ball, threw it to smith at first who drove it to Blackburn at second, completing a tripple play. The Clarksville Leaf-Chronicle says this was the first tripple play of the season.

Not so. Earlier in the season the Reds at Vincennes got the credit for the first tripple of the season in any league. Duffy came up on a line drive in center field, threw it to the second baseman with a precision that stunned the visitors, and he in turn sent it direct to first completing one of the most difficult tripple plays that are ever met with.—Vincennes Commercial.

Cairo Strengthening.

The management yesterday signed Leming, an outfielder who just finished the season with Clarksville in the Delta league. He will arrive at noon today and be in center field in Shannon's place. The latter has returned from whence he came, wherever that may be, and it is with sincerest regret that the Cairo team loses the services of such a player. Shannon is the equal of any leader in the Kitty league.—Cairo Bulletin.

Wilder to St. Paul.

A special dispatch received last night from Secretary M. J. Farnbaker who in company with his wife, is sojourning near Minneapolis, Minn., states that if eyes in the American Association league are turned on the "Kitty" in quest of new players.

Secretary Farnbaker has recommended several of the Kitty players to Minneapolis and St. Paul. Among them is Percy Wilder, one of Cairo's best pitchers and on the strength of Secretary Farnbaker's recommendation he will be purchased by Minneapolis and they will wait for the draft season, but will purchase him from Cairo before the season opens.—Cairo Bulletin.

A Little Dope.

Col. Ben Welle says that Mr. Barney Dreyfus, of the Pittsburgh Nationals, told him when he saw him recently up in New York, that he intended playing an exhibition game in Paducah without all the coming spring. This spring he played at Memphis, but next season he cut Memphis out.

Mr. Dreyfus told Col. Welle a rule that if carried out will give any city a crack club. "Never hire a player who can't bat," he said. "It makes no difference how well a man can play, if he can't bat he ought not to be in a baseball club that aspires to the championship."

The I. C. Machinist team played at Metropolis yesterday and defeated the Metropolis team by a score of 5 to 4. Vooldridge and Pelgin was the battery for the Paducah team, while Munal pitched for the Metropolis boys. The game was well attended.

The I. C. Machinists and I. C. Boiler Makers will play a match game at Wallace park this afternoon for the benefit of western railroad strikers. A small admission fee will be charged.

A match game of ball was played yesterday between the Eden Hill Stars and the Square Nut Splitters of the local I. C. Shops, resulting in a victory for the former by a score of 7 to 3. Batteries were Theobald and Andrecht for the Stars and for the Nut Splitters, Brate and Averitt. This is the second victory of the Stars over the Nut Splitters. This makes the sixteenth victory of the Stars this season, the team having lost but one game.

ABCESSES.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store (who is now in Denver, Colo.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world."

ABCESSES, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility. They may, however, result from blows or from foreign bodies, introduced into the skin or flesh, such as splinters, thorns, etc.

Prof. William Deal, the band-master, has an interesting dog story. Last Saturday night the people in the neighborhood of Seventh and Broadway began to be troubled by the plaintive wails of a dog. The animal howled loud and long, and appeared to be in great distress. The neighbors met and said uncomplimentary things about whoever it was that kept the animal tied up or failed to feed it, and many were the inquiries as to where the canine was.

Sunday the howling continued, and Monday it had increased instead of diminished. The animal, when sought in one direction, seemed to be somewhere else. Its howls were as elusive as a ghost, and the wraithful wails kept the people in as great misery as that of the unknown, undiscovered dog.

Tuesday the howling was resumed, or rather it again wrought up the people after a night of fitful slumber. Wednesday there was no change, and Wednesday night Prof. Deal, who resides in the house adjoining the flats, decided he could stand it no longer, and as he returned with his wife from the theater, determined that he would find the animal that made the doleful noise if he had to search all night. They walked around the corner, whence the sounds seemed to emanate from the other direction. They retraced their steps and the sounds seemed to come from the place they had just left. Finally they got it narrowed down until it was evident that the howls were somewhere near Prof. Deal's own residence. He shortly afterwards decided that they were from beneath his house, and that was what gave them the far-away sound. Taking a lamp he went down into the cellar. The sounds were clearer but still the dog was not visible. A closer search revealed the fact that there was still another cellar, and into this Prof. Deal wended his way, and there he found the emaciated fringed dog, a small terrier which had gotten into the cellar and couldn't get out. It was slowly starving to death, having been there at least from last Saturday until Wednesday night, and possibly longer. The house in which Prof. Deal lives, which he has not occupied long has a double cellar, built for a brewery formerly being located there and the lower cellar was built for a beer cellar. The dog was in the beer cellar.

Jailer Fayette Jones is a truthful man, and for that reason no one has a right to doubt the story he tells about his friend, Jim Houser, of the Florence Station neighborhood. Mr. Houser, according to Jailer Jones, has a mule that beats anything in the mule line in this section for intelligence. The mule in wandering about during the autumn months, acquired a fondness for persimmons, but he could never learn to climb a tree. The animal appeared to be depressed last year when persimmons began to ripen, because the boys generally beat him to the trees and copped the supply. Finally, however, he made a discovery. By kicking the tree he found that the luscious "simmons" would come down in profusion, and he now wears out several pair of shoes every fall getting his fill of persimmons. Jailer Jones says it is an absolute fact that the mule will back up to a persimmon tree and give it a kick that brings down the fruit like hail.

Dr. S. B. Caldwell is a strict temperance man, and because of it he lost a good sale the other day after negotiations had proceeded at some length and the deeds were all ready to be signed. He does not regret the failure of arrangements to be carried out, however, and says he will do it every time if necessary. The facts are that a prospective purchaser of property on West Broadway called on Dr. Caldwell to close a deal for a lot. The terms were agreed upon and the deed drawn up. In every one of Dr. Caldwell's deeds for property in that section of the city, is a clause which provides that the purchaser shall not erect or permit erected a saloon on the lot.

The purchaser backed out on this and stated that he did not know what he might do with it, and if the clause stood he would refuse to buy. Dr. Caldwell informed him that if people could not wait until the city was reached to get a drink, they didn't want them in that neighborhood, and with this tore up the deed.

"I never intend to have a saloon in that section of the city, if I can help it," Dr. Caldwell stated, "and I will not sell a lot to any one who does not promise to bind himself not to put up a saloon or allow one to be put up on the lot."

There is one dog in Paducah that has a "automobile." It is the big but mischievous bull-dog of Mr. Max Kahn, the wholesale whiskey dealer. The dog is very fond of a ride. The porter at the store, where the dog stays most of his time, has rigged up a sort of carriage on the front of his bicycle, and when he starts out on a trip the dog jumps into it and is carried along. The canine enjoys it hugely, and never fails to draw a second look from people along the street who witness the unusual spectacle of a big dog being ridden around like a delicate infant.

Master Cullen Tate the youthful baseball fan, is perhaps the youngest boy who ever went to college from Paducah. Master Cullen, although only ten, left yesterday for Bellbuckle, Tenn., to enter school. Saturday after his trunk had been packed, his mother discovered that among the various articles Master Cullen had packed away was a bible, a pair of boxing gloves and a butcher knife. When interrogated as to why he desired to take a butcher knife, he stated that he understood the boys sometimes had trouble with the professor, and he desired to be prepared for any emergency. Needless to say, he was persuaded to leave the knife at home, and in case of complications, the young man will have to resort to his boxing gloves.

A good day's work is generally worth a month of physical culture.

TO LIVE CENTURY

Scientists Sees Era When Infection Will be Unknown.

Dr. Oliver Ferguson in Prophecy of Longevity and Painless Exit From the World.

London.—Length of human life, approximating the years enjoyed by the patriarchs of the later Mosaic age, is predicted by Dr. Oliver Ferguson, of Cheltenham, who, to say the least, is a pleasantly optimistic scientist.

He anticipates the happy time when all disease germs shall have gone the way of the extinct mammoth and the mastodon, of the "black death" and of the "sweating sickness."

Lecturing the other day at Oxford, Dr. Ferguson said that "for those happy people who shall be living a hundred years hence there probably no longer will be any dread of infection, for perhaps before then—thanks to radium and its congeners—we shall have exterminated all noxious bacteria, and our grandchildren, therefore, all will live a hundred years or more."

According to Dr. Ferguson, up to the present time humanity has been born prematurely, and the last hundred years in science have been worth all the thousands that preceded them. In support of this argument he stated that within the last sixty years the average length of life has been extended by about a decade.

With the advance of medical science Dr. Ferguson conceives that there may be "no weaker organs in the human body hereafter." If that should be the case, to use his own words, "the last act (death) will consequently come to all quite suddenly and painlessly, when all our organs shall be equally worn out together, when all shall give and stop and crumble and dissolve together—just as it was with the celebrated 'one-hoss shay.'"

Commentators on the Cheltenham scientist's lecture assert that he would have illustrated his meaning more aptly by quoting Rider Haggard's description of the passing away of the mysterious "She" in that author's remarkable African romance.

CHILDREN WHO MUST GO TO SCHOOL NOW

The New Compulsory Law Will Affect the Schools.

Truant Officer Must Be Appointed To See That All Children Go to School.

THE LAW IS VERY STRICT

The approach of school days makes the new compulsory education law of interest all over the state. It is:

Section 1.—That every parent, guardian or other person in any city of the first, second, third or fourth class within this commonwealth, having the control of any child or children between the ages of seven and fourteen years, shall be required to send such child or children, annually, to some public or private school for children for the full term of such school and if such attendance be upon a private school, it shall be one full term of which is not less than five months: Provided, however, that this act shall not apply in any case where the child is physically or mentally unfit to attend school, or has already acquired the common school branches required by law; such acquisition to be tested and certified in the same manner and at the same time as in the case of county graduates of the common school.

Sec. 2.—In the first week in July each year the board of education in each city of the first, second, third and fourth classes, shall appoint one person for each three thousand pupils, or fraction thereof to serve as truant officer, whose term of office shall be for one year from date of appointment and whose authority shall be limited to the city where the appointment is made; such person so appointed shall be of strict moral character, and with ability to read and write. Truant officers shall be paid from the school tax levy of such city, at the rate of not less than $1 nor more than $2.50 for each school day.

Sec. 3.—Truant officers shall examine into any case of truancy within the city and shall warn the parent, guardian or others in charge of the child of the final consequences of truancy if persisted in. When any child within the ages of seven and fourteen years, is not attending school without lawful excuse, and in violation of the provisions of this act, the proper truant officer shall notify the parents, guardian or other person in charge of the fact, and require such person to cause the child to attend some recognized school within five days from the date of notice, and it shall be the duty of such person so to cause its attendance at some recognized school. Upon failure to do so, the truant officer shall make complaint before a justice of the peace of the county in which such child lives, against the parent, guardian or other person having such child in charge, and upon conviction the parent, guardian or other person in charge shall forfeit to the use of the school in the city in which such child resides a sum not less than $5 nor more than $20 for the first offense, not less than $10 nor more than $50 for the second and every subsequent offense, and cost of suit.

Sec. 4.—The truant officer shall keep a record of his transactions for the inspection of the school boards of such cities, and suitable blanks shall be provided for his use by the state superintendent.

Sec. 5.—Any person having control of a child who, with intent to evade the provisions of this act, shall make a wilfully false statement concerning the age of such child, or the time such child has attended school, shall forfeit for each offense a sum not less than $5 nor more than $20 for the use of the public schools for such city.

REGISTRATION LAW

WILL BE CONTESTED AT LOUISVILLE SOON.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 5.—Attorney Barton Vance has notified County Clerk William J. Semons that suit would shortly be filed to test the constitutionality of the act passed by the last legislature requiring that voter present a certificate of registration before being allowed to vote.

It is claimed the act is illegal and also that it makes bribery easier than under the old law.

FINEST SEASON IN HISTORY OF THE GAME

This is one of the most successful baseball seasons in the history of the game, and simply because the New York teams have been conspicuous in the pennant races ever since the season opened last April. When baseball booms in New York it prospers everywhere else, says the New York Daily News.

Take the Giants as an example. Here is a team that practically held in the National League since the season opened, and everywhere the team goes record crowds turn out to see them play. The attendance figure at the Polo Grounds have been shattered time and time again. Indeed, not one ever dreamed that a crowd of 40,000 would attend a game in this city.

The fine work of the Highlanders is like a much needed tonic to the American League. Manager Griffith's men are playing up to the topnotch, and the club is getting the patronage it deserves wherever the men appear.

The Highlanders have had a rough road to travel, which makes their showing much more noteworthy. Almost from the start good men have been laid off through injuries, and at one stage of the season the team was so badly crippled it did not seem possible to win a game.

The men, however, worked hard and are now enjoying their reward—first place in the American League race, with as good a chance to win the pennant as the two teams that are next in order and claiming the flag.

This is the time of the year when the major league teams are scouting for new material with which to strengthen up the clubs. The teams at the bottom in the race are naturally the ones the most interested in the crop of youngsters, but no club can neglect this source of supply long and retain a prominent place in major league company. Some of the teams are employing regular scouts on a salary to look up material for them, while other managers will not intrust this important matter to others, and are traveling around in the minor leagues themselves.

When Manager Hugh Duffy, of the Philadelphia National League Club, returned from his scouting expedition through the west recently he said that he saw only one good player that he wanted, and that was McChesney, right fielder of the Des Moines team, of the Western League, who has been purchased by the Chicago National League Club.

Other minor league leaders are not finding such a dearth of young blood that bears the semblance of major league caliber. Duffy reports from his little jaunt. Dozens of minor leaguers have been signed already by the various clubs of the two big organizations. Drafting day was on Monday, August 15, and no doubt quite a bunch of contracts with these lads will be made known to the waiting and expectant baseball public.

DAILY THOUGHT.

Nature is the great rejuvenator; her spirit is ever young. Live with her;

FOR THE CONSTITUTION.

We are glad to see that some of our Democratic friends have organized a club to inculcate obedience to the constitution, says the New York Tribune.
The Democracy needs education in that respect. At convenient seasons it "views with alarm" the "unconstitutional"
course of everybody else, but it has not much use itself for laws and constitutional provisions which run counter to any of its notions. We highly approve of these Democratic lawyers if they are ready to stand for the constitution and the whole constitution, but
the country pretty well sees through the century-old Democratic humbug of "unconstitutional." Jefferson started it by proclaiming George Washington "unconstitutional," and when he himself came into power he proceeded to acts which he himself believed and said made "blank paper" of the constitution. Andrew Jackson made great parade of his superior devotion to the constitution, but no man ever rode roughshod over the law more readily than he. The Democracy held it "unconstitutional" to keep slavery out of the territories. Then when the Civil war came on it declared the saving of the union "unconstitutional." Somewhat later anything but a "tariff for revenue only" became "unconstitutional." After that the single gold standard was "unconstitutional." The Porto Rican and Philippine legislation was "unconstitutional" until the supreme court decided otherwise, and according to Judge Parker's speech of acceptance
the supreme court itself is sometimes
"unconstitutional," which may account
for his vote in favor of Mr. Bryan's proposition to pack the court to reverse
the income tax decision. Now the Republican administration in general is "unconstitutional," notwithstanding Judge Parker's careful neglect to make any issue with it on any one of the great questions of public policy.Republican policies call for construction, the Democratic for destruction.The bald pretense that Judge Parker,
the candidate of Wall street, and the likes of August Belmont, George Foster
Peabody, Colonel Guffey, W. F. Sheehan, and James Smith, Jr., multi-millionaires and corporation managers, are
in travail of soul about the plain people will not fool all the people part of the time, nor part of the people all of the time, and certainly not all of the people all the time.—Kansas City Times.Has Bryan been converted to the Democratic plutocracy and gold brickParkerites? Not much. He is as busy as a bee forming alliances with the Populists opposed to the "capitalistic classes." He talks of Parker of course, to promote his scheme for attempting to elect a legislature in his favor for United States senator, but Parker will get cold comfort from the Nebraska returns in November. That is about as certain as anything well can be in advance of the actual happening, for in Nebraska the fight is for Bryan before any consideration of Parker and Davis.—Camden Courier.Everybody who follows the trend of politics can perceive that a reaction has set in against Judge Parker. It is the old instance of the hysterical flocking to the standards of him whom they believe to be a great leader and then,
recognizing that they were illusionized,
promptly breaking and flocking away.
—Tamaqua (Pa.) Courier.In 1903 our internal trade was estimated at 52 billions of dollars, equaling the entire international commerce of the world for that year. Let's keep up the record, by keeping up our industries, under the only way they can be kept—the protective tariff system.—
York (Pa.) Dispatch.The New York Times declares that the keynote of Judge Parker's speech
of acceptance is "domestic tranquility." Things were so tranquil in the last Democratic administration that a majority of American workmen became unwilling loafers.Tom Watson says: "I have no words of abuse for Theodore Roosevelt. I believe him to be a brave, honest, conscientious man. I give him full credit for having a splendid courage of conviction."The Democratic party has no abler man than General Luke E. Wright, but they are not quoting his views on the proposition to turn the Filipinos back to savagery.Since 1897, under Republican administration and under the operation of the Dingley law, the increase in savings bank deposits has been considerably over $1,000,000,000.Justice Brewer warns the American people of the danger of transferring a man from a high judicial position to politics. The warning will be heeded.

MANY ARRESTS

Government.Rotten Preserves Must Be Condemned
and Thrown Away At Once.

THE INSPECTORS ARE NOTIFIED

In the future all condemned life preserves on any class of boats under the jurisdiction of the United States laws governing navigation must be stamped
"Condemned," and taken from the boat
on which they have been found by the inspectors.The rotten life preservers that were in the majority on the steamer General
Slocum have aroused the department of commerce and labor, and strict orders are being sent to every inspector of hulls and boilers in the United States.A copy of the letter issued by the department has been sent to all officials who have aught to do with the inspection of steam vessels in the United States.The letter says that information having reached the department that the law governing the destruction of condemned life preservers is being violated in a number of instances, it has been found necessary to issue further instructions regarding all life preservers
that are unfit for use on board any boat operating under the United States
laws. In the future, all inspectors will see that condemned life preservers are not permitted to remain on boats and that they are removed and disposed of in accordance with the regulations.A stencil must be procured with not less than one inch letters, and this must be used to stamp all preservers found
unfit for use or that cannot be repaired with the word "Condemned."All life preservers found in need of repairs need not be condemned, but all inspectors must see that none such are allowed to remain on any boat as a part of the number she must carry under the laws. When any preservers are found to be in bad condition, but are not worthless enough to be condemned,
the inspectors shall see that there are a sufficient number of good ones on board
all boats to make up the full complement.Another paragraph of a supplementary letter which came yesterday says
all inspectors in the United States are instructed to buy a font of rubber type,
not less than one and one-half inches
in length, together with the necessary
holders, and when a boat is inspected,
shall use this stamp on all life preservers found aboard that pass inspection, stamping them with the day,
month, year and initials of the inspectors making the inspection.The inspectors for this port will at once comply with the new order, and will see that there are no violations
in their district.

WHY BRYAN SUPPORTS PARKER.

(From the Kansas City Journal.)

The simple truth is that Mr. Bryan is more an ambitious politician than he is an uncompromising patriot. There are two reasons why he is supporting Judge Parker. Although temporarily repudiated and thrown down, he still expects to receive high emoluments from the Democratic party and he knows the value of keeping his party regularly on straight. More immediately, he is an avowed candidate for the United States senate and he wants the co-operation of the Democratic national committee and its Wall street funds in carrying the Nebraska legislature this fall. He can get this only by throwing his influence
to Parker in Nebraska, Missouri and other states where his following is strong.

WE STAND ON OUR RECORD.

During the seven years that have just passed there is no duty, domestic or foreign, which we have shirked; no necessary task which we have feared to undertake, or which we have not performed with reasonable efficiency. We have never sought refuge in criticism and complaint instead of action. We face the future with our past and our present as guarantors of our promises,
and we are content to stand or to fall
by the record which we have made and are making.—President Roosevelt.

IN MANY PLACESThe New Law is Very Strict in Kentucky.Many Cities Are Now Preparing For a Strict Enforcement of the Law.

A VAGRANT IS DEFINED

Every city in Kentucky can now, if it desires, get rid of its "bums" and loiterers. Here is Kentucky's new vagrant law:Section 1. The following persons shall be deemed to be vagrants, to-wit:(1) Any able-bodied male person who habitually loiters or rambles about without means to support himself, and
who has no trade, calling or profession to make an honest livelihood.(2) Any able-bodied male person who is without visible means of support,
and who habitually fails or refuses to engage in honest labor for his own support, or for the support of his family,
if he has one.(3) Any able-bodied male person who purposely deserts his wife or who is imprisoned, either in a workhouse or jail, shall be required to work, at hard labor during the term of his imprisonment.Section 3. Circuit courts, police courts, quarterly courts and justices of the peace shall have jurisdiction of the offense of vagrancy, and for the purpose of trying a person charged with vagrancy, police courts, quarterly courts
and justices' courts shall be deemed to be always open.Section 4. It shall be the duty of all sheriffs, constables, marshals and policemen, to keep a watch for vagrants
at all times and places where they are accustomed to congregate. And if any of these officers has reason to believe that a vagrant habitually infests a public place or street it shall be the duty of said officers to warn him to leave such place and go to work. If two or more vagrants habitually loiter
about any street or public place, it shall be the duty of said officers to disperse them, using no more force than
is reasonably necessary for that purpose.(4) Any able-bodied person, male or female, who has no visible means of support, and who habitually refuses to work, and who habitually loiters on the streets or public places of any village, town or city.(5) Any able-bodied male person
who purposely deserts his wife or children, leaving them, or any of them
without suitable subsistence or suitable means of subsistence, and himself becomes idle and dissolute.Section 2. Any person found guilty of the offense of vagrancy, shall, for the first offense, be fined ten dollars or imprisoned in the work house, if there be one, for thirty days, if not, imprisonment shall be in the county jail thirty days or the punishment may be both such fine or imprisonment. For the second offense and all subsequent offenses,
sixty days' imprisonment in the work-
house, if there be one, if there be none,
in the county jail. Any one who is fined under this act shall be required to work at hard labor at the rate of one dollar per day until fine and cost are satisfied. Any one who is imprisoned, either in work house or jail, shall be required to work at hard labor during
the term of his imprisonment.

ABILENA

Abilena is natural water. It holds in solution salts dissolved from natural deposits in the earth. It is Nature's cathartic compound—a natural mineral water. Mineral waters are recognized everywhere as the most efficient, as well as the least injurious, cathartics. Abilena is the best mineral water on the American market. It is The American Natural Cathartic. The discovery of Abilena
was a simple revelation of nature.
For a long time a ter the first well
was dug, the water, being unfit for domestic purposes, was not used at
all. Practical tests afterward disclosed its medicinal properties and
the report of its virtue was rapidly
disseminated. Finally several chemists analyzed the water and the results manifested its great therapeutic value and preindicated its future
renewal. Sold only byMcPherson's

NEWS OF
THE RIVERS.A call has been issued by the Marine Engineers association for a convention of the Ohio and Mississippi river engineers to meet in St. Louis on September 12. There are several matters that will come before the convention but the most important is understood to be the question of a uniform
scale of wages. There is a wide difference of opinion among the engineers on this question. Many engineers think the wage question is too much affected
by local conditions to make an uniform
scale for the entire Ohio and Mississippi rivers and should be left to the lodge in the different parts to deal with
as they are better posted upon the conditions of their respective ports.The Henry Harley took an excursion to Smithland yesterday morning.Gauge today is 2.9, a fall of one-tenth.
Clear and cooler. Temperature, 70.The Dick Fowler was out on time this morning for Cairo with a good trip.The J. B. Richardson did not arrive from Evansville until this morning
about 10 o'clock, and left about 11 on her return.The Charleston arrived last night
from the Tennessee river and goes out again tomorrow night.The J. T. Duffy goes out this afternoon into Tennessee river.The Clyde will arrive this evening
from the Tennessee river and remain
until Wednesday.The Woolfolk came up with embers from Cairo yesterday and returned.Capt. Jack McCaffery has returned from Davenport, Ia., but goes back
shortly with his boat, the Ten Broeck,
for two barges just built.The official investigation of the explosion of the towboat Fred Wilson, at Louisville last May, shows that low water in the boilers did not cause the explosion, and it is not known what did
cause it, as this was the only theory
advanced.

NEW YORK POLICE.Institute a Movement to Form An Association to Help Families of Officers.New York, Aug. 29.—A movement has been instituted among members of the New York police force to form an association for the purpose of assisting families of officers killed in the performance of their duties. Numerous deaths of this kind have occurred recently in fires and battles with burglars. As a rule, the victims left a large family
without means, and the only help they received was a small contribution from the riot relief fund. It is now proposed that an organization shall be formed
with its affairs administered by trustees, and that each member of the force
shall contribute fifty cents as an assessment in cases of death. In this way
$3,500 would be raised.PURE BLACKBERRY

BOYS MUST STOP

THE DEPOT OFFICIALS WILL NOT ALLOW BICYCLE RIDING ON THE PLATFORM.

The local Illinois Central passenger depot officials are determined to make examples of boys and men who persistently in disregard of the rule, ride bicycles on the depot platform.
 This is strictly against the company rules and is finable the same as if a person rode on the pavements in the city. The I. C. has posted several bulletins against bicycle riding on the depot platforms and the local officials have been troubled a great deal of late by persons who after being asked kindly to dismount, are ejected from the platform. Boys will hereafter be arrested and prosecuted.

THE GRAND JURY
• IMPANELED TODAY

Mr. T. M. Nance Was Selected Foreman of It.

Divorce of Mr. David Flournoy Docketed—Petit Jury to Be Impaneled Tomorrow.

CRIMINAL DOCKET COMES THEN

Judge W. M. Reed convened the regular September term of McCracken circuit court this morning at 8:30 o'clock and empaneled the grand jury as follows:
 John Dean, Wm. Smith, Jr., B. C. Simms, Archie Tate, T. M. Nance, Wm. Ward, Wm. Hough, Sr., Charles Hughes, J. M. Englert, Claude Overstreet, Wm. Gond, and J. W. Wagner. Mr. T. M. Nance is foreman.

There was little done except empanelling the grand jury.
 The case of David Flournoy against Laura Flournoy for divorce was by agreement docketed. The allegations in the petition are abandonment. The defendant is a daughter of the Rev. Sam Jones and the plaintiff one of the most prominent young society men in the city.

A judgment was filed in the divorce case of Louran Daniel against Jas. W. Daniel.

A judgment was filed in the case of Barron Parker Mfg. Co. against C. O. Ripley for $180.

A judgment was filed in the case of the Illinois Life Insurance Co. against Chas. Earhart, E. O. Hansen and E. E. Hansen against the latter two defendants for $462.38.

In the case of L. Seamon & Co. against T. C. Culver a judgment for $229 was filed.

The courtroom presented a very pretty appearance this morning. The walls and woodwork has been repainted, the courtroom refurnished and everything was bright and pleasing. The arrangement of the courtroom was altogether different and Paducah now has one of the prettiest circuit court rooms in the state. The acoustics have been bettered by the new arrangement which is credited to Judge R. T. Lightfoot.

After the grand jury was empaneled and instructed, the court adjourned for the day.

Tomorrow the petit jury will be empaneled. Tomorrow regular criminal cases will be taken up for trial.

WISCONSIN ISLAND ON FIRE.

Place in Black River Made By Refuge From Many Sawmills, Burning for Miles.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 31.—Colman island, in Black river, near North La Crosse, is on fire and all efforts to put out the blaze have failed. The island is made land, and years ago, when dozens of sawmills were running, they piled all the refuse on it. The place is burning underground for a distance of several miles. The flames also have spread under roadways, so that farmers dare not drive in the vicinity for fear of being precipitated into a furnace below.

LEARNING THINGS

WE ARE ALL IN THE APPRENTICE CLASS.

When a simple change of diet brings back health and happiness the story is briefly told. A lady of Springfield, Ill., says: "After being afflicted for years with nervousness and heart trouble, I received a shock four years ago that left me in such a condition that my life was despaired of. I could get no relief from doctors nor from the numberless heart and nerve medicines I tried because I didn't know that the coffee was daily putting me back more than the Drs. could put me ahead."

"Finally at the request of a friend I left off coffee and began the use of Postum and against my convictions I gradually improved in health until for the past 6 or 8 months I have been entirely free from nervousness and those terrible sinking, weakening spells of heart trouble."

"My trouble all came from the use of coffee which I had drunk from childhood and yet they disappeared when I quit coffee and took up the use of Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Many people marvel at the effects of leaving off coffee and drinking Postum but there is nothing marvelous about it—only common sense.

Coffee is a destroyer—Postum is a builder. That's the reason.

Look in each pkg. for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

PRINCIPLE NOT EXPEDIENCY.

We do not have to avoid a definite and conclusive commitment on the most important issue which has recently been before the people, and which may at any time in the near future be before them again. Upon the principles which underlie the issue the convictions of half of our number do not clash with those of the other half. So long as the Republican party is in power the gold standard is settled, not as a matter of temporary political expediency, but because of shifting conditions in the production of gold in certain mining centers, but in accordance with what we regard as the fundamental principles of national morality and wisdom.—President Roosevelt.

From childhood I had been bothered with bad blood, skin eruptions and boils. I had boils ranging from five to twenty in number, each season. The burning accompanying the eruption was terrible. S. S. S. seemed to be just the medicine needed in my case. It drove out all impurities and bad blood, giving me permanent relief from the skin eruption and boils. This has been ten years ago, and I have never had a return of the disease.

TANGLED THREADS

By F. B. WRIGHT

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

"And that was three years ago, wasn't it?" Miss Travers said. "It doesn't seem like it."
"No," he replied; "it seems—thirty."
"Thanks! Have I really aged so much since then?"
"I mean until I saw you it seemed thirty," he explained.

"Three years—it goes very quickly. You haven't changed much."
"I haven't changed at all."
She regarded him critically. "No, you haven't—in looks."

"I haven't in any way," he replied earnestly and with an undertone of intention in his voice. "And you—you are all I imagined."
"I imagined? Then I was not a reality three years ago. I was a mere figment of your brain. What do you mean?"

"I mean—why—that in all these years I have been imagining you—in all sorts of ways, you know."
"Oh! Sometimes as fair haired, I suppose, and sometimes as dark haired, sometimes with a hump and sometimes cross eyed."

"Nonsense!"

"Well, it's what you said, 'all sorts of ways,' and yet—do you remember the silly speech you made me when you went away?"

"Of course—only it wasn't silly. It was the frozen truth."

"It didn't seem very frozen then, but perhaps it does now, however, at this distance. You haven't answered my question yet, though. What was it you said?"

"Why—that—what's the use of my telling you over again if your memory is so good?"

"It's your memory that's in question, not mine. Confess you don't remember."

"But I do, of course. It was that I wouldn't forget," he said triumphantly. Miss Travers dropped her eyes, raised them again for a brief fluttering moment and again dropped them with a pensive little smile.

"And you remember what it was I said to you then?" he asked impressively, leaning nearer and looking down at the bent head.

"You said—of course, you were just saying it—but you said you would remember every word I had said to you, every look of my eyes, every tone of my voice. You were quite sentimental that night."

"It was meant, every word of it. No man could forget. I know it now."

"Now? Didn't you know it then? What do you mean? You talk as though you were not the same man you were. Aren't you?"

"Well, every man changes, you know, every seven years. Scientific fact, I believe."

"But it hasn't been seven—only three."

"Oh, of course, not really change. I was joking. What I meant was that knowing you, having your image before me these years, has made a changed man of me—changed the whole course of my life," he said earnestly.

"Ah, and you have that photograph of me yet?"

"Of course. As if I wouldn't! It has never been out of my keeping since I stole it from—"

"I thought I gave it to you myself?" she said, with some surprise in her voice. "Have you forgotten how you begged it from me that night?"

"Of course I haven't forgotten," he replied heartily. "I know you gave it to me." But she was not listening. Her eyes were looking off into the distance beyond the dark glass of the conservatory.

"How beautiful the moonlight was on the water that night, and far off some boating party was singing! It was perfect!"

"Yes, perfect, at least to me."

"Do you remember when we gilded into that stretch of lily pads and I lifted them dripping from the water, each drop like a diamond, and you said—"

"And I said I wished they were real so that I could give them to you," he said boldly.

"Did you? I thought it was that the drops would spoil my gown—the gown you admired so much."

"I did admire it. I have always seen you in that gown—and your face luminous in half shadow, the glint of your hair and your arms gleaming in the moonlight as you trailed your fingers in the water and made silvery ripples over the polished black mirror of the river."

He drew a long breath when he finished, as one who felt relieved.

"And it was as we neared home, wasn't it, that you told me that you wanted my picture?"

"Yes."

The corners of her mouth twitched a little. "What a splendid memory you have," she said, "a marvelous memory I call it. I wish I had one like it, though it's not what I would call accurate—if that's a sample—because, you see, you didn't ask me for my photograph that night. It was fall when you left, and it rained hard that afternoon, and we could not go out, but instead sat in the drawing room by the fire. Except for these little details, your recollection of what happened is wonderfully clear."

"But you said yourself—"

"Yes! I did. I just wanted to test you. Now I commence to doubt that you really still have my picture."

"I can show it to you."

"Are you certain it's not some other girl that you've mistaken for me? One pleasant day," said he.

is liable to mistake one person for another unless there's a special reason."

"No danger. There's not another girl in the world like you. I knew you the moment I saw you."

"Knew me?"

"Yes, across the ballroom."

"You had forgotten me, then?"

"I mean," he exclaimed slowly, like one who picks his way, "that I knew you—for the one girl I cared about."

"Oh-h! But was it at a ball we first met? I remember your telling me that three years ago, but I didn't think it was at a ball that that knowledge came to you. We met first—let's see—where was it?"

"At—at—it's idiotic, but for the life of me I can't remember for the moment. You were the important matter, all else."

"It's hardly to be expected you should recollect," she said, compassionating his confusion. "It was at the Thorntons'."

"Of course, the Thorntons. I knew, but I couldn't think of the name. I remember Harry telling—"

"Harry? What Harry?"

"Harry—Harry Thornton, of course."

"Oh, I never knew there was a brother. And he told you—"

"That he wanted me to meet you. He said, 'Phil, there's a'—"

"Why, I thought your name was Harry, but possibly that's changed in three years too. You used to be called Harry."

"A man may have two names, mayn't he?"

"It seems like it."

"I mean he may have more than one name. My name is Henry Philip Morton. All my old chums at college called me Phil."

"I might have understood—so stupid of me. So Mr. Thornton was a chum of yours at college?"

"Yes. Great friends we were."

"And that's how you came to know his sisters? Charming girls, weren't they?"

"Very, very charming, only I don't want to talk about them now. It's such a waste."

"Why, have you quarreled?"

"No, not exactly."

"I thought perhaps you had, because Clara Thornton just passed, and neither of you spoke. I thought it curious."

"Yes. Of course I saw her—but it's rather a painful subject with me and so if you don't mind let's get it over."

He looked off sadly, with a perturbed expression of countenance, due naturally to the pain he was feeling. There was silence for a moment or so and then, hearing a little sobbing sound, he turned toward her.

She was bending over, her face buried in her hands. Like a flash he came over him what was the matter. She cared for him and thought he cared for the Thornton girl.

"Margaret," he said, "Margaret, dear it was nothing of that kind. I've never cared for any other woman but you—honestly."

Suddenly she lifted her face. There were traces of tears in her eyes.

"Oh, you fraud!" she cried. "You utter fraud!"

"I tell you—"

"You impostor! And you fancied I believed you?"

She drew a folded letter from the folds of her gown and found a place in it.

"Read that, Mr. Philip Morton, and then—"

Morton read the part she indicated.

"—And now the greatest news! Of course, you sly puss, I know of you flirtation with Harry Morton three years ago and that you gave him your photograph. Well, my dear, it seems that Harry's twin brother, Phil, saw the picture and rescued it when Harry was burning his scalp just before his marriage. Phil's kept it on his mantle for three years. Now he is going west and what do you think? He proposes to stop off at Glendale and pretend he's Harry, stay at the Johnstons, and pick up the ends of the affair with you right where he dropped them. Isn't that impudence? He has made a bet with Harry that he can do this, and he should be taught a lesson. He is exactly like Harry, as good looking and clever, and I'm afraid—"

"You needn't read the rest," Miss Travers interrupted. "It's nothing to do with you." She turned a severe countenance toward the culprit. "It is a very nice trick to try and play on a girl, isn't it? So gentlemanly!"

"I suppose it wasn't fair, but—"

"But what? I want to be just."

"Well, it wasn't all a lie. The picture was all I said to me, and I have known ever since I met you that I cared for you, but I suppose you are awfully offended, and it's all over."

"It should be, shouldn't it, as a punishment? There ought to be some punishment surely."

"I shall lose my bet. Isn't that enough unless you'll let me win it?"

"Why, how can I?"

"The threads, you know. Let me pick 'em up where Harry dropped them. Then I'll win. You said you were going walking, weren't you, that day, and you couldn't because of the rain? I fancy tomorrow will be a fine day. The stars are very bright. Look up through the palms there. Mayn't I come tomorrow for you?"

"You don't deserve it, and I won't promise, but I shall be home at 3 and—Your wait, Mr. Akerly? Yes, so it is. Too bad you had such a hunt for me. I was just going in."

Miss Travers' hand fumbled for a moment adjusting her roses, then she moved away to the ballroom, leaving behind her on the floor a bud just opening to the world.

Morton picked it up and put it in his buttonhole.

"I am quite sure tomorrow will be a pleasant day," said he.

SUITS AGAINST CITY.

Total of Personal Injury Cases for Six Months Is 452 and the Judgments Aggregate $138,989.

Fewer personal injury suits against the city of Chicago were begun in the six months ending June 30 than in the similar period in 1903. There were 452 cases filed in the circuit and superior courts, and the total of judgments obtained was $138,989.

The comparative figures are given in the semi-annual statement issued by City Attorney John F. Snauski. The average judgments against the city is $307.49. The number of cases entered in the circuit court was 223, with a total of $63,446 in judgments, an average of $284.60.

In the superior court there were 229 cases, with total judgments of $75,523, an average of $329.79.

Comparing the figures of the first half of 1903 and the present year, the decrease is nearly 40 per cent.

"We have fought the personal injury suits in the courts so hard that there are being fewer suits filed," said Mr. Snauski. "The judgments obtained are being remarkably low. As long as there are poor sidewalks the cases will come."

Moran of the Lady Letty

By

Copyright, 1898, by
S. S. McClure Company

Moran swung herself over the side, hip deep in the water, and, wading ashore with a line, made fast to the huge skull of a whale half buried in the sand at that point.

Wilbur followed. The schooner had grounded upon the southern horn of the bay and lay easily on a spit of sand. They could not examine the nature of the leak until low water, the next morning.

"Well, here we are," said Moran, her thumbs in her belt. "What next? We may be here for two days; we may be here for two years. It all depends upon how bad a hole she has. Have we 'put in for repairs,' or have we been cast away? Can't tell till tomorrow morning. Meanwhile I'm hungry."

They pledged each other.

Half of the stores of the schooner were water soaked, but upon examination Wilbur found that enough remained intact to put them beyond all fear for the present.

"There's plenty of water up the creek," he said, "and we can snare all the quail we want, and then there's the fish and abalone. Even if the stores were gone we could make out very well."

The schooner's cabin was full of water, and Wilbur's hammock was gone, so the pair decided to camp on shore. In that torrid weather to sleep in the open air was a luxury.

In great good spirits the two sat down to their first meal on land. Moran cooked a supper that, barring the absence of coffee, was delicious. The whisky was had from aboard, and they pledged each other, standing up, in something over two stiff fingers.

"Moran," said Wilbur, "you ought to have been born a man."

"At all events," she said—"at all events, I'm not a girl."

"No!" exclaimed Wilbur as he filled his pipe. "No, you're just Moran—Moran of the Lady Letty."

"And I'll stay that, too," she said decisively.

Never had an evening been more beautiful in Wilbur's eyes. There was not a breath of air. The stillness was so profound that the faint murmur of the blood behind the eardrums became an oppression. The ocean tiptoed toward the land with tiny rustling steps. The west was one gigantic stained window, the ocean floor a solid shimmer of opalescence. Behind them sullen purples marked the horizon, hooded with mountain crests, and after a long while the moon shrugged a gleaming shoulder into view.

Wilbur, dressed in Chinese jeans and blouse, with Chinese wicker sandals on his bare feet, sat with his back against the whale's skull, smoking quietly. For a long time there was no conversation. Then at last:

"No," said Moran in a low voice, "this is the life I'm made for. In six years I've not spent three consecutive weeks on land. Now that Elliott—she always spoke of her father by his first name—now that Elliott is dead, I've not a tie, not a relative, not even a friend, and I don't wish it."

"But the loneliness of the life, the solitude," said Wilbur—"that's what I don't understand. Did it ever occur to you that the best happiness is the happiness that one shares?"

Moran clasped a knee in both hands and looked out to sea. She never wore a hat, and the red light of the afterglow was turning her rye hued hair to saffron.

"Hoh!" she exclaimed, her heavy voice pitched even lower than usual. "Who could understand or share any of my pleasures or be happy when I'm happy? And, besides, I'm happiest when I'm alone—I don't want any one."

"But," hesitated Wilbur, "one is not always alone. After all, you are a girl, and men, sailor men especially, are beasts when it's a question of a woman—an unprotected woman."

"I'm stronger than most men," said Moran simply. "If you, for instance, had been like some men I should have fought you. It wouldn't have been the first time," she added, smoothing one huge braid between her palms.

Wilbur looked at her with intent curiosity—noted again, as if for the first time, the rough, blue overalls thrust into the shoes; the coarse flannel shirt open at the throat, the belt with its sheath knife, her arms big and white and tattooed in sailor fashion, her thick, muscular neck; her red face, with its pale blue eyes and almost massive jaw, and her hair, her heavy, yellow, fragrant hair, that lay over her shoulder and breast, coiling and looping in her lap.

"No," he said, with a long breath, "I don't make it out. I knew you were out of my experience, but I begin to think now that you are out of even my imagination. You are right, you should keep to yourself. You should be alone—your mate isn't made yet. You are splendid just as you are," while under his breath he added, his teeth clenching, "but I love you!"

It was growing late, the stars were all out, the moon riding high. Moran yawned.

"Mate, I think I'll turn in. We'll have to be at that schooner early in the morning, and I make no doubt she'll give us plenty to do," while under his breath he added, his teeth clenching, "but I love you!"

Without answering, Wilbur showed her a couple of blanket rolls he had brought off while he was unloading part of the stores that afternoon. They took one apiece and spread them on the sand by the bleached whale's skull. Moran pulled off her boots and stretched herself upon her blanket with absolute unconcern, her hands clasped under her head. Wilbur rolled up his coat for a pillow and settled himself for the night with an assumed self-possession. There was a long silence. Moran yawned again.

"I pulled the heel off my boot this morning," she said lazily, "and I've been limping all day."

"I noticed it," answered Wilbur. "Kitchell had a new pair aboard somewhere, if they're not spoiled by the water now."

"Yes?" she said indifferently. "We'll look them up in the morning."

Again there was silence.

"I wonder," she began again, starting up into the dark, "if Charlie took that frying pan off with him when he went?"

"I don't know. He probably did."

"It was the only thing we had to cook abalones in. Make me think to look into the galley tomorrow. This ground's as hard as nails, for all your blankets. Well, good night, mate. I'm going to sleep."

"Good night, Moran."

Three hours later Wilbur, who had not closed his eyes, sat up and looked at Moran, sleeping quietly, her head in a pale glory of hair—looked at her and then around him at the silent, deserted land.

"I don't know," he said to himself. "Am I a right minded man and a thoroughbred, or a mushhead, or merely a prudent, sensible sort of chap that values his skin and bones? I'd be glad to put a name to myself." Then more earnestly he added, "Do I love her too much, or not enough, or love her the wrong way, or how?" He leaned toward her, so close that he could catch the savor of her breath and the smell of her neck, warm with sleep. The sleeve of the coarse blue shirt was drawn up, and it seemed to him as if her bare arm, flung out at full length, had some sweet aroma of its own. Wilbur drew softly back.

"No," he said to himself decisively; "no, I guess I am a thoroughbred after all." It was only then that he went to sleep.

When he awoke, the sea was pink with the sunrise, and one of the bay heads was all distorted and stratified by a mirage. It was hot already. Moran was sitting a few paces from him, braiding her hair.

"Hello, Moran!" he said, rousing up.

"How long have you been up?"

A WOMAN'S UNMANLINESS

(Original.)

Titus and I were inseparable. Titus was my dog, a brown and white setter who cared for no one in the world but me. In the summer we would wander over the country together, in the autumn would hunt together.

One morning when I started out, expecting to find Titus at the front door waiting for me, as was his invariable custom, he was not there. Nor did he again appear. He had been stolen.

In town that winter I met Miss Jeannette Fearing. She chafed at being confined between brick walls, compelled to seek solace in an occasional ball or other similar entertainment, and pined for the summer home of her family, where she could ride on horseback, fish and hunt. This was manly, and I admitted manly women. When with her, instead of being obliged to chat on the happenings in our social circle, I found her ready to discuss more important topics, and where she did not understand she was quite willing to listen.

After enjoying her society at intervals through half a winter I met her one afternoon and was surprised at receiving from her a very cold nod. My first impulse was to go to her and ask for an explanation. Had she been another woman I would have done so, for women are easily offended, and doubtless some trifling act of mine had been misunderstood. But Jeannette Fearing I had considered above such petty misunderstandings, and if she had a grievance against me she should state it openly in a frank, manly way.

I did not see Jeannette again that winter, nor indeed that summer. In the autumn I was invited to the country seat of a friend and had some excellent shooting, though I missed Titus and lost many a bird that I should have bagged with his assistance. When the party broke up I remained to get a day's shooting in a region some twenty miles distant where woodcock were said to abound. Starting early, I was driven to the ground, and with my gun entered the wood. I had had such bad luck with my host's dogs that I had brought none of them. I had bagged several birds when I heard not far away the report of a gun, and a few minutes later a dog broke through the underbrush and, seeing me, paused to examine me. In another moment he uttered a yelp of delight and came for me on the jump. I saw at a glance that he was my old friend Titus. While he was climbing over me, licking my face and hands, I caressing him, a woman wearing a short dress and high boots, carrying a gun, emerged from the brush and stood looking at me. What was my astonishment to recognize Jeannette Fearing. I raised my hat, and she returned my salute, but as coldly as when I had last met her in the city.

"This is a singular meeting," I said. "Do you live near by?"

"Our country place is a mile away."

"And I am visiting near by."

"Caesar, come here," she called.

Caesar, as she dubbed him, demurred, and when she ordered him more sharply skulked along slowly, occasionally turning to me.

"Tite!"

With a bound he started in my direction and did not stop till he had his paws again on my shoulder. Jeannette looked puzzled.

"How did you come by this dog?" I asked.

"I bought him in the city last fall."

"You are under the ban of the law, having in your possession stolen goods."

"I shall be happy to pay for him."

"I do not care to sell him, but you are quite welcome to him."

"I am not in the habit of accepting presents from men."

"We might leave it to the dog to choose his owner. Tite, go to your mistress."

I pointed to Jeannette and looked sternly at the dog. He lay down on the ground, whined and thrashed the turf with his tail. But I did not cease my orders till he had gone to a point midway between us. "Now," I said, "we shall see whether he will follow you or me." I moved away. Jeannette, too, turned and walked on. The dog stood looking from one to the other. His distress was so great that we both stopped.

"For the dog's sake," I said, "I will ask an explanation of your changed treatment of me."

"Last winter I wrote you a note to your club containing a simple request. You did not consider it worth a reply."

"H'm," I said, pondering. "Another letter gone wrong." Then to Jeannette: "There is a man in the club with the same initials as mine and a similar name. He sometimes gets my letters and usually turns them over to me, but last fall he went abroad. He probably read your letter in Europe."

She stood looking first at me, then at the dog, then on the ground.

"Don't you think," I asked, "that a more manly way?"

"I am not a man."

"I have often endowed you with certain manly traits. A man, not receiving a reply to a note from me, would have come to me at once for an explanation."

"A woman would scorn to do such a thing."

"You have given me great pain."

"And you spoiled my—my winter."

There was a slight tremor in her voice. Having discovered something womanly I left off looking for manliness. I had gone up beside her and, taking her hand, said abruptly:

"Let us own the dog together."

Since the advent of a little stranger my wife has retrograded considerably. She has not now even the manliness to hunt with me.

Use Shoffner's Sure Cure

The Great Tonic and Blood Purifier—Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Catarrh.

It is a trite and true saying that the "blood is the life." Now where does the blood come from? Everybody knows, or should know, that it comes from the nutritive elements extracted by the stomach from the food we eat. If the digestive organs do not perform their functions by reason of disease germs, there is no nutrition extracted, and the food might better be thrown in the dump to decay and breed germs in the open air than to remain in the stomach and become a rotten, putrid mass, as it naturally does if there is no digestion. No disease germ can live and find lodgment in a human body that uses the Shoffner's Sure Cure. Price $1.00.

What People Say of the Shoffner's Sure Cure.

PADUCAH, Ky., March 5, 1903.

To Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that I was a sufferer with indigestion for five years and could get no relief until I bought one bottle of Shoffner's Sure Cure, and it helped me so much that I took six bottles, and it has cured me sound and well, thanks to the Shoffner's Sure Cure.

MRS. JOHN SMEDLEY, 806 S. Third St.

This is to certify that I believe the Shoffner's Sure Cure saved my life. I was not able to sit up in bed when I began taking the remedy. I had such a severe cough I thought I had consumption. Physicians had given me up to die. After taking one bottle I was able to sit up some. After using five bottles I was fully restored to health. I cannot say enough in favor of this wonderful remedy for indigestion.

MRS. SUE GRAHAM, Moscow, Ky.

If after using one bottle according to directions you are not benefited, your money will be refunded.

KENTUCKY NEWS TOLD IN PARAGRAPHS

A New City Judge.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 5.—Douglas Bell, for the past four years City Judge of Hopkinsville, has resigned his position, having formed a law partnership with the council at once elected J. Walter Knight, who will enter upon his duties next week.

A Sudden Death.

Central City, Ky., Sept. 5.—Mrs. Fannie Hendricks, wife of Judge R. L. Hendricks, died suddenly of heart failure.

Prominent Minister Dead.

Mayfield, Ky., Sept. 5.—The Rev. W. W. Worrell died at his home, six miles north of the city, at the age of eighty-two years. He had been a very prominent and conspicuous figure in both church and state in this county for many years. He was a member of the legislature in 1887.

Runaway Marriage.

Fulton, Ky., Sept. 5.—A runaway marriage that stirred Fulton society was that of Thomas L. Allen and Miss Mary Thompson, which occurred at Dyersburg, Tenn. The bride is a daughter of A. B. Thompson, one of the wealthiest men of the county. The groom is a telegraph operator in the office of Superintendent Gavens, of the Illinois Central railroad.

Held to Grand Jury.

Cadiz, Ky., Sept. 5.—"Boss" Hite, the negro that was arrested near Roaring Spring, charged with an attempt to assault the ten-year-old daughter of Mr. Mark Clark, of that community, had his examining trial here before County Judge Bingham, and was held under $1,000 bond to await the action of the grand jury.

Mr. Overby Declined.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 5.—Chairman Morgan Chinn, of the state election commission, has called a meeting of the body to be held here on Friday, September 9, next to fill vacancies on county boards.

The following county commissioners have declined to serve: H. C. Overby, democrat, McCracken; R. E. Stanley, democrat, Floyd county; O. B. Kerlin, democrat, Fulton county; O. G. Temple, republican, Greenup county.

Novel Remedies.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 5.—The Rev. Baker D. Lee, of Christ church cathedral, has given out a statement in which he suggests remedies for the social evil. He recommends three saloons for Lexington, two for whites and one for negroes, all to be under control of the city. No screens are to be tolerated in the saloons and only good liquor is to be sold. For disorderly houses he prescribes high license. As a remedy for lynchings he proposes that the brute, whether white or black, who shall be found guilty of an assault shall be turned over to the surgeon to be converted into an eunuch and that he have the letter A branded upon his forehead and that he be given twelve hours in which to leave the locality.

Fell Fifty-two Feet.

Marion, Ky., Sept. 5.—At the B. W. Belt mines near Lola, a very serious accident occurred. Hardy Belt and John Croft had gotten into the tub to go down to work in the bottom of the shaft. The tub had scarcely begun to descend when the friction clutch on the hoister gave way and let the tub and the two men fall to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of 52 feet. Mr. Belt's leg was terribly mangled, his knee cap being broken into four pieces. Mr. Croft's ankle was sprained and his flesh was considerably torn. They will recover unless blood poison sets in.

Died in Colorado.

Bowling Green, Ky., Sept. 5.—The remains of Capt. A. J. Moore, who died at Pueblo, Colorado, arrived here today for burial. Capt. Moore was well known to horsemen all over the state. His home was at Greenville, Miss. He was married twice in this county. His second wife, who was Mrs. Bena Hines, survives him.

Women Fight Duel.

Owingsville, Ky., Sept. 5.—At Age creek, Harlan county, Mrs. Silas Ball, 35 years old, and Mrs. Mary Thomas, 30, fought a duel with knives over John Barnell, who has been paying attention to both. Barnell formerly was engaged to marry Mrs. Ball, but, it is said when he met Mrs. Thomas his affections were transferred. The women met in a lonely spot in the mountains and fought until Mrs. Ball had been stabbed five times. She will die. Mrs. Thomas was arrested. She was only slightly hurt.

Body Filled With Shot.

Danville, Ky., Sept. 5.—Thomas Cecil shot and seriously wounded James Chinn near this city and slightly wounded Chinn's adopted son, Ed. Walters. The difficulty arose over some timber that each claimed. Both are well-known farmers. The weapon used was a shotgun and Chinn's body and that of his son were filled with bird shot. The men have been unfriendly toward each other for several years, and friends of both feared serious trouble ere this. Cecil has not been arrested.

CAN HAVE ONLY ONE

QUESTION OF SCHOOL BOOK DEPOSITORY CAUSES TROUBLE.

The American Book Company is having trouble in many towns in Kentucky over the question of depository, and in Mayfield it is threatened to test the law.

The book company claims it has a right to name "one or more depositories" in a town, but only one if it desires, and at Mayfield it has named only one.

In Paducah there are two, and no trouble is likely.

IN EGYPT

MR. CHARLES DENEEN WILL SPEAK IN MANY PLACES THIS WEEK.

Hon. Charles S. Deneen, Republican nominee for governor of Illinois, opened his campaign this morning at Metropolis, speaking at 10 a. m. at the court house. Beginning today, he will by Saturday make nineteen speeches in as many counties, and visit all the Illinois towns on the Ohio river save one.

This afternoon he speaks at Golconda, and Saturday will wind up his tour of Southern Illinois at Cairo.
